Latin School of Indianapolis

Indianapolis, Indiana

The great seal of the Latin School of Indianapolis points up our spirit. The fish and trident are the symbols of the hardy manner of living of Indiana's early settlers, the French fleur-de-lis indicates leaving homeland for a new life; the star symbolizes the goal of the priesthood for our students.

LATINEAN 1964 presents the spirit of LATIN SCHOOL OF INDIANAPOLIS

looking ahead...

to the goal of the priesthood has been a major welding force in Latin School spirit. A picture of many facets of this spirit are in the pages that follow.

Spirit is Soul and Mind

The House of God and the halls of learning are sanctuaries where the mind and spirit find their growth. The purpose of the Latin School is to further its students in both of these areas so that they be best prepared for the priesthood.

Dedication

After one year at Seymour High School, Father Head transferred to St. Meinrad Minor Seminary. Awarded a Basilian scholarship to Catholic University of America, he received his master's degree in philosophy and licentiate in theology there. Father was ordained in his own parish church, St. Ambrose, Seymour. He was assistant at Holy Trinity and instructor at Ladywood School before he helped Monsignor Brokhoge organize the Latin School in 1955.

Father Head's kindness and scholarship have won for him the admiration of the student body. The students are most grateful to him for his guidance and attention.

The Latinean Staff proudly dedicates the 1964 yearbook to the Reverend Bernord Head.

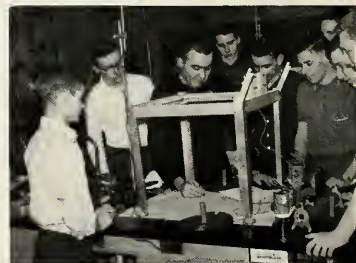

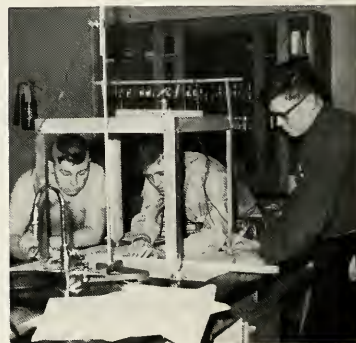

Archbishop Schulte

Archbishop Schulte, the founder of Latin School, has been a constant friend and booster of the school. Before coming to the Archdiocese of Indianapolis, Archbishop Schulte was the ordinary of Leavenworth, Kansas. Recently, he was appointed Assistant to the Papal Throne.

Monsignor Brokhage, who celebrates his silver jubilee this year, was recently created a papal chamberlain. He has been an outstanding influence on Latin School spirit.

Acquiring scholarship is hard work. But study and work create a significant amount of Latin School spirit.

FACULTY

Spirit of Learning

here a moment...

of hilarity by the faculty at the Halloween party results in a pause in the spirit of learning. The faculty at the Latin School is a young well-trained staff with a lot of experience. Besides their roles as teachers they provide guidance and friendship to each student.

With matter like this, who needs
a mind?

"Look at all my Teen Star articles."

"It's O.K.! Nobody's looking."

"It's the ultimate in interior styling."

"I'd say something brilliant, but I have my thumb in my mouth."

"When you've done that,
polish my shoes."

"Hee, It's fabulous, but I don't believe it. You grubby beast, It's hard to believe, but you're ex-yourmentis."

"Here comes another string of blacks."

"O well, who's studying for grades."

"One of these days, I'll get one of my own."

"I always keep my bookstore neat."

"This will only cover three detentions, Scanlan."

"I got the old car today."

"I said I'd improve government class."

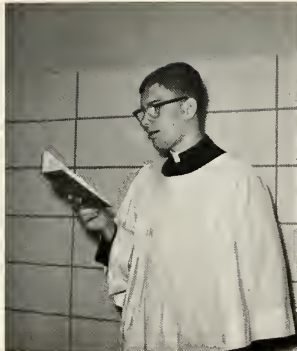

"As you can see, I love guitar music."

"O. K. Benz, out of the rec-room for two weeks."

"I wish I was back at Scecina now."

SEE SID SING

"Father Lynch thinks I'm helping him."

The Infirmary and his favorite patient.

So that's what they do at Dugan Hall.

"What should I do with the dead frogs?"

"Who cares about the bells. I've just started desert."

"The Seniors finally got it."
